FROM WASHINGTON.

The Secretaryship of the Interior Settled.

Ex-Senator Chandler Appointed to the Vacancy.

WASHINGTON, October 19, 1875.

The New Secretary of the Interior.

Ex-Senator Chandler had a long interview with the President this morning and accepted the appointment of Secretary of the Interior. As soon as Mr. Chandler had signified his acceptance his commission was made out, and a note sent to Chief Justice Carter, of the District Supreme Court, to appear at the White House at noon. The Chief Justice accordingly proceeded to the Executive Mansion and administered the oath of office to the new Secretary. The Cabinet then met and Chandler took his seat at the table.

Postoffice Thief Arrested.

John H. Nichols, a clerk in the city postoffice, has been arrested on the charge of purloining letters.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, October 19, 1875.

Suspension of Whisky Rectifiers.

John H. Cuthbert & Co., whisky rectifiers, at Burling Slip, suspended yesterday, and made an assignment of their property. Their liabilities amount to about $150,000.

Defrauding the Revenue.

About $3,500 worth of lace, silk and velvet trimmings, jet goods, beads, &c., recently imported from England, but undervalued in invoices presented to the customs officers, were seized yesterday in a free store warehouse and at the store of one Livingston, Broom street. The capture of the original invoices led to the discovery of the attempt to defraud the revenue.

Murder in the First Degree.

Jacob Souder, the man who on April 19 shot and killed Louisa Leiberman, was convicted of murder in the first degree to-night. He will be sentenced to-morrow.

THE MISSISSIPPI TROUBLES.

How the Disbandment of Militia Came About—Conference Between Citizens and the Governor.

MEMPHIS, October 19.—The Appeal's Jackson (Miss.) correspondent gives the following statement in regard to the so-called treaty of peace, whereby the militia was disbanded. The following named citizens of Hinds county: General J. Z. George, Chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee; Joshua Green, D. Sheldon, E. Richardson, J. W. Robinson, H. Hilsheim, T. J. Wharton, Frank Johnston, J. G. Rafts, Robert E. Saunders, Gen. Robert Lowry, and W. L. Nugent, held an interview with the Governor on Thursday. The citizens, in response, to fears expressed by the Governor, that peace and good order would not be preserved, and that the colored men would not be permitted to vote as they pleased, assured the Governor that there was no other desire among the whites than that peace should be preserved, laws enforced, and a fair election had. The whites had all along inculcated this, and they also assured the Governor that they would pursue this course until the election, and would, both by precept and example, do all in their power to preserve peace and good order, and so secure a fair election. Governor Ames promised that in view of the statement made by the citizens, he was willing to meet their views as far as he could, and to that end he promised that he would order all the militia companies which had been organized to disperse and go to their homes without their arms; but on further consultation it was agreed that the arms of several companies organized should be deposited in the depots in the neighborhood in which the companies were raised, should be guarded by United States troops to be detailed for that purpose, and to be under the control of the Governor, and to be removed only by his order; or, if United States troops could not be gotten, then the arms were to be guarded by men selected by the Governor and General George, and that the arms should not again be delivered to the militia except in case of riot or insurrection which could not be suppressed by the civil authorities.

KENTUCKY MASONS.

Annual Communication of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons—Meeting of the Grand Lodge of the State—Imposing Funeral Ceremonies Over the Remains of the Late Grand Secretary McCortie.

LOUISVILLE, October 19.—The Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons convened in the Masonic Temple on Monday evening, Grand High Priest Joseph P. Force in the Oriental chair presiding, being the fifty-ninth annual communication. The other officers elected were as follows: James A. Beattie, of Louisville, G. H. Priest; James W. Staton, of Brookville, D. G. H. Priest; James B. Blue, of Morganfield, Grand King; G. D. Buckner, of Lexington, Grand Scribe; Albert G. Hedges, of Louisville, Grand Treasurer; Joseph H. Branham, of Owensboro, Grand Secretary.

The Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of Kentucky is in session in the Masonic Temple in this city. This is the seventy-sixth annual session, and has opened with an attendance of 300. Most Worshipful Henry Bostwick presiding. All the other officers present. A committee of five was appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the grief of the Masonic brotherhood at the death of Eminent Brother John C. Breckenridge, Past Grand Orator. A memorial report upon the late Grand Secretary, S. M. McCortie, was adopted by a rising vote. This afternoon the members of the Grand Lodge, and also those of city bodies, including several Knights Templar, Knights Kadosh and hundreds of citizens, formed a funeral cortege, marched to the cemetery, and there buried the remains of the late Grand Secretary McCortie with Masonic honors. Thousands participated. The streets along the line of march were thronged with people to witness the procession.

LOUISIANA LAWLESSNESS.

The Troubles in East Feliciana Parish.

NEW ORLEANS, October 19.—A committee of prominent citizens of East Feliciana Parish, headed by Mr. Piper, Conservative member of the House from that parish, waited upon Acting Governor Antoine today, with a view of concerting measures to suppress lawlessness. Judge Dewing, whose Court was adjourned in consequence of the shooting of Sheriff Smith, also submitted a conditional proposition to go back and hold a special term of Court, providing the law-abiding citizens pledged themselves to give active support to the enforcement of the laws.

Trial in a Whisky Case.

MILWAUKEE, October 19.—In the trial of Erskine, to-day, several witnesses were examined, after which the prosecution rested. The Acting District Attorney entered a nolle pros. as to the first count, which charged that Erskine had permitted certain tubs in Shanfield's distillery to remain unsealed. Mr. Fish opened for the defense. The first witness called was ex-Supervisor Munn.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

A Joyous Occasion—Handsome and Valuable Tokens of Friendship—Complimentary Resolutions and Happy Speeches.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

During the past week Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Archer, of Washington county, near Dinsmore Station, extended invitations to their intimate friends, requesting them to be present on the 15th inst. and commemorate with them the fifteenth anniversary of their wedded life. The invitations were gladly accepted and generally responded to, for by 10 o'clock A. M. more than fifty couple, comprising friends from different counties in this State and that of West Virginia and Ohio, were assembled in the parlors of the happy couple. At 11 o'clock the bride and groom, accompanied by their sweet little daughters, entered the south parlor and there received the congratulations of their assembled friends, and extended in return such a hearty greeting as only they know how to give. I shall not attempt to describe the costumes of bride and groom, but will only say that they were the identical ones in which they were married fifteen years ago, and though they did not correspond with the fashions of the day they were certainly neat, in good taste and showed that they had been well preserved; and I feel confident that it is the wish and desire of those who were present that the wearers will still preserve those suits and that they may live to enjoy and wear them on the golden anniversary of their wedding day.

A large table was spread, upon which were placed the tokens of friendship, presented by the numerous guests, which, when placed together, formed a handsome combination, comprising a large variety of both the useful and the ornamental, containing but few duplicates, and every article was chaste and neat in design; and some were rare and exquisitely beautiful. Doubtless many of these mementos will be carefully preserved and handed down to posterity as heirlooms and souvenirs commemorative of the day and occasion on which they were received. At noon the assembly was conducted to the dining hall where all partook of a bountiful and sumptous repast and to which, it must be said, all did ample justice.

After the cloth was removed, on motion of Major Crawford, of West Virginia, Maj. Lee, of Cross Creek, was called to the chair and George Y. McKee, of Oakdale, was chosen Secretary. Also, on motion, of Geo. McKee, Captain J. B. Hays and Vincent Miller were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the feeling of those assembled. The committee retired and in a short time returned and reported a series of appropriate resolutions, the adoption of which called out from the guests present a number of happy speeches, replete with capital hits, wit and humor. A motion was passed for the publication of the resolutions in the press, but the native modesty of the re-married couple rebelled against such publicity, and of course they will be withheld.

This, like all meetings on earth, had to come to a close, and as the shades of evening drew on, the assembled guests began to disperse, though seeming loth to part, and no wonder, for it is rarely that frail mortals are permitted to enjoy the company of so genial and happy an assembly as was there collected. Each and all gushed over in affectionate farewells and kind wishes to friends and neighbors, and all gave expression to the wish that the wedded couple and family "may live long and enjoy good health and prosperity." A ROMAN MYSTERY.

The Body of a Young Girl Found Packed in a Box Sent from Naples.

(Correspondence of the London Times.)

About the beginning of September a box, measuring a metre in length and fifty centimetres in depth, and strongly corded, arrived at Rome, with other goods, from Naples. It was directed to a Francesco Buono, and was put aside, in accordance with the direction, until the owner should send or call for it. It had been noticed for some time that a very offensive and gradually increasing smell pervaded the warehouse where it was stored, and finally, on examination being made, it was ascertained to come from this box, from which it was then observed a thick fetid matter was oozing. After some deliberation the police authorities were communicated with, and an order obtained for the examination of the contents. On removing the lid and some superficial packing they were horrified to behold the almost naked body of a young woman in an advanced state of decomposition. It was all huddled up together, the legs bent forward and down upon the body, and the arms crossed upon the breast in order to cram the corpse into the space. It was packed in with tow and sawdust; a thick layer of rock salt laid over it, and the inside of the box had been carefully lined to close the crevices between the boards. The body was removed as speedily as possible to the dead house at the Campo Verano, the large cemetery outside the Porta San Giovanni, where Dr. Leoni made an examination to ascertain the cause of death. The first thing observed was a long incision dividing the abdomen, and it was then ascertained that the contents, both of the abdomen and the thorax, had been removed and the cavity filled with salt. Further examination proved that there was no external mark of violence, and it is therefore supposed that the girl must have been poisoned and the entrails withdrawn before the body was crushed into the box to prevent the cause of death from being detected. At the same time, this may have been done and the salt inserted with the intention of arresting decomposition for as long a period as possible.

The body is that of a young girl of about 18 years of age, slight in figure, and with long chestnut hair; but as a marked deformity has been ascertained by which one shoulder was evidently raised above the others, it is supposed that neither passion in whatever phase nor jealousy can have caused the crime. What amount of beauty the face may have possessed it is impossible to judge, so entirely are the features marred. From the appearance of the finger nails, which are long and well tended, she would appear to have been of gentle birth, or at any rate not of servile condition. The surgeons are of opinion that death was caused either by poison or suffocation, as the appearance of the brain would seem to show. The incision along the abdomen would seem to have been made by a practised hand. The police are in full communication with Naples on the subject, but thus far nothing has been ascertained except that a short time back application was made by a father whose daughter had mysteriously disappeared.

A HUNCHBACK'S REVENGE.

Murdering Two of the Boys who had Made Fun of his Deformity.

Rome Correspondent of the London Times.

In August last great alarm was created in the village of Incise, near Florence, by the mysterious disappearance of two children—a boy, nine years old, on the morning of the 21st, and another boy of eight the following evening. It was supposed that they might have fallen into the stream where they went to fish and bathe, but no trace of them or their clothes could be found. All kinds of exaggerated ideas got afloat in the village, more particularly as these were not the first children who had suddenly disappeared, and it was asserted that there were children killers in the adjoining wood. On the 29th, while one of the women of the village was arranging her hair at the back window of her room, she heard frightful shrieks, and recognized them as coming from Amerigo Torchi, a boy nine years old, and that they proceeded from the workshop of one Carlo Grandi, a cart carpenter. She ran down into the street and alarmed the neighbors, who made for the workshop, which they found closed, the boy crying loudly for help from within. After vain attempts to get Grandi to admit them, they burst open the door, and found him struggling to force the boy into a hole. He had cut the child feafully about the head, and from his mouth blood was flowing, caused, as the boy afterward narrated, by a wedge Grandi had tried to force into his mouth to gag him. After the man was secured it was observed that some of the bricks of the flooring were loose, and on these being removed the first thing seen was a child's hand. The place was quickly dug up, and the mutilated bodies of the two boys who had disappeared ten days before were discovered; and on the hole into which Grandi was trying to force Amerigo Lurchi being examined, a number of other children's bones were found at the bottom. No sooner was the thing known than the village became a scene of the wildest excitement; and the authorities had to send off in hot haste for whatever military and police there were in the vicinity, and a sufficient force arrived just in time to save the wretch from being torn to pieces by the populace.

It seems that the murderer, Grandi, was a deformed man of diminutive stature, high rounded shoulders, very large head, upon which there was not a scrap of hair, and repulsive features. As is too often the case in Italy, such unfortunate creatures become the object of open public ridicule. The boys of Incisa had been in the habit of teasing and tormenting Grandi, and playing all kinds of practical jokes on him, and it was in revenge for this that he had, as opportunity offered, enticed now one and then another of the ringleaders into his workshop, and there murdered them, burying them under the floor. Amerigo Torchi said that Grandi had invited him into his workshop under the pretext of having some fun with the other boys; that to accomplish this he was to hide in the hole Grandi uncovered, but that immediately he entered it Grandi attempted to strangle him.

BURNED TO DEATH.

A Sad Calamity to an Oil City Family—Three Children Left Alone in the House—They Started a Fire with Kerosene—Explosion of a Can of Oil—One Child Burned to Death and Another Fatally Injured—The House Reduced to Ashes.

OIL CITY, PA., October 19.—A small tenement house in the northern part of the city, occupied by a family named Ginty, was burned this afternoon. The mother of the family had gone away, leaving the house in charge of three children, who endeavored to kindle a fire with kerosene during her absence. The fire in the stove ignighted the oil in the can, which exploded, enveloping the house in flames, and so fast burning the little boy who was lighting the fire that there is no hope of his recovery. One of the little girls, about thirteen years old, escaped without injury, but the other child, a little girl about four years old, ran to a closet and shut the door. She was not discovered until the house was consumed, when her charred remains were found.

A Procession of Odd Fellows Insulted and Pelted with Stones by Students.

NEW YORK, October 19.—A special to the Sun from New Haven reports a procession of Odd Fellows Encampments of Connecticut, with invited Encampments from Providence, insulted and pelted with stones by students as they passed Yale College, and retaliated by charging upon the students with drawn swords. Several of the students were slightly wounded and the ranks were temporarily disunited. The Faculty of the college have expressed regret at the unfortunate occurrence.

THE LECTURE COURSE.

The Sale of Season Tickets Not Encouraging—Prospects for the Season—An Appeal.

Notwithstanding the unusually good selection of lecturers that (through the energy of Chairman McClelland) has been secured for the Mercantile Library Course the coming season, the prospects of a successful and profitable issue are not by any means as encouraging as is desired, or was expected. Up to the present less than seven hundred season tickets have been sold, while at the same time last year between eleven and twelve hundred had been disposed of. The discouraging slowness with which the tickets are going off, and the need of funds, has caused the Board of Directors and the Lecture Committee not a little uneasiness, insomuch that some debated the propriety of canceling some of their engagements, or even discontinuing the course altogether. As, however, they felt confident that such a step would not be agreeable to our citizens, and thinking that perhaps if a little more effort were made the embarrassments would disappear, they concluded to issue the following circular instead, which is sent to every member of the Association:

To the Members of the Young Men's Library Association:

The Board of Directors and members of the Lecture Committee, after consultation, have agreed not to discontinue the Course of Lectures for the present year, although the prospects for the success of the Course are less flattering than any year previously. We regret to state that the Library Association has not sufficient funds to meet current expenses, and the sale of season tickets for the Lecture Couse has not been as large as in former seasons. In order that the Lecture Committee may not meet with a loss, it is incumbent upon each member of the association to assist in making the course a success. To this end we, the undersigned committee appointed by the Board of Directors for that purpose, respectfully and earnestly request you to purchase a season ticket, and use your influence to procure one or more tickets to your friends. We hope each member will consider this a PERSONAL APPEAL.

Tickets can be obtained at the Library Rooms.

L. HALSEY WILLIAMS,
WM. L. CHALFANT.

Pittsburgh, October 19, 1875.

It is to be hoped that their confidence in the appreciation of true worth by Pittsburghers will not prove misplaced, and we are induced to think it will not. The course, as has frequently before been said, is one of exceptional merit. It does seem that it should only be necessary for our citizens to look over the list to be satisfied that they will be trebly repaid for their investment in a season ticket in the wealth of intellectual enjoyment that will be theirs. And they must not forget that all the proceeds of the course go to the improvement of the library.

In this connection we may mention that the membership of the Library Association is much larger now than ever before, a fact that proves conclusively that the people are beginning to appreciate thoroughly the great advantages to be derived from the library.

The "Wine of Life" can only be kept free from adulteration or impoverishment by perpetuating through digestion and a regular action of the kidneys and bowels. A morbid habit of body tends to derange digestion, divert the bile from its proper channels into the circulation, and thus render it both watery and impure. Deficient action of the kidneys also causes blood poisoning. Regulate, strengthen and depurate with Udolpho Wolf's Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps.

Library Hall.

What could be more unique than the presentation of an opera by a company of little children? Nothing. The attributes of attractiveness rests with the performers. If they fail to make the entertainment enjoyable it is a failure. One of mature years could hardly be led to believe, unless they received ocular and auricular demonstration of the fact, that Offenbach's sparkling "Grand Duchess," which requires so much vivacity and expression in acting and singing, could be even creditably performed by a troupe of children ranging in age from six to ten years. Yet that opera was not only creditably but superbly given last night at Library Hall by the Mexican Juvenile Opera Bouffe Company. The press of all the eastern cities in which they appeared were lavish in praise of them. Their success has been unsurpassed, and Pittsburgh is generally as quick and as ready to recognize musical and dramatic merit, as her larger sister cities. For that reason we anticipate that their season here will be crowned with triumph. The leading singers of the company are the Moron brothers and sisters, Carman and Guadalupe, Estevan and Gabriel. Carman is but eight years old, and interpreted the role of the Grand Duchess. She is a fair haired little beauty, and aside from her exquisite singing she is a charming and accomplished actress. Her wonderful vocal ability is the source of real pleasure, and her grace and ease of motion would do credit to an experienced and mature professional actress. As a matter of course her voice is not full and powerful, but it is resonant, flexible and sympathetic, and her singing is full of expression. Nina Carman became a favorite last night immediately upon her appearance, and as her genius became apparent during the progress of the opera, she was enthusiastically applauded. No less popular was the six year old bewitching Guadalupe, who sustained the part of Wanda, and whose lovely childish face and bright black eyes won every heart. Her character was admirably rendered, and she omitted nothing that would have enhanced its attractiveness. The faces of these two sisters were wreathed in continual smiles. Not dull, meaning less stage smiles, assumed because the occasion demanded them, but real and genuine, as any one could easily see, and born of sunny dispositions and native good humor. The manner in which Gabriel Moron enacted the role of the swaggering General Boum, showed that he had a good conception of the part. Both his acting and singing were highly satisfactory. The choruses were effective and manifested the careful training which has been bestowed upon the participants. Between the second and third acts Senorita Soledad Unda y Moron, a fifteen year old sister of Carman and Guadalupe, and who is considered too far advanced in years to be included in the cast of the opera, sang the "Carnival of Venice." The excellent and spirited manner in which she gave it gained her an encore, when she rendered it. This evening "Robinson Crusoe" will be presented. The admiration of the writer for these little singers is unqualified, and he therefore feels at perfect liberty to assure all who propose visiting any of the performances this week that, if they possess the faculty of appreciation, they will most certainly enjoy a rare and delightful entertainment.

The Thomas Concerts.

Two of Theodore Thomas famous concerts, which are never given in Pittsburgh to other than large and fashionable audiences, are announced for Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week at Library Hall. The sale of seats commences on Friday morning at Klieber's, on Wood street.

Minstrelsy.

The Kelly & Leon minstrel and burlesque opera troupe are billed for two early performances at Library Hall, on Saturday and Monday evenings the 23d and 25th inst. The organization is well and favorably known in Pittsburgh and hence it is unnecessary to speak of it at length. Reserved seats are for sale at Hale's music store, on Smithfield street.

Trimble's Varieties.

This is a standard place in the estimation of patrons of variety entertainments, and it is always the endeavor of Mr. Aims to present such attractions as he thinks will be most calculated to please and amuse. The bill he presents this week is a strong one. The usual matinee will be given this afternoon.

Musical and Dramatic Notes.

CARL FORMES is teaching music in San Francisco.

MR. JOHN E. OWENS has purchased the Academy of Music at Charleston.

MME. JENNIE VAN ZANDT arrived at New York on Monday in the Baltic.

THE play of the "Two Orphans" was dramatized from a novel entitled "The Depths of a Sister's Love."

OTIS REED, an actor and elocutionist, who was for many years the Lord Dundreary of Laura Keene's company, died at Boston on the 10th instant.

MRS. J. LEVY, nee Marianne Conway, has abandoned the dramatic stage, and is devoting herself to the culture of her voice, with a view to debut in the concert room.

THE Cincinnati Commercial says: "The aggregate money expended by visitors to places of amusement here in the last four weeks was probably never equalle din this city in the same time."

SCHNEIDER, the ex-queen of Paris opera bouffe, says she is "done singing." The more youthful Aimee adds, "because your time is up." These two will probably have a duel in the new Cassagnac-Rochefort style.

An unknown donor sent a magnificent diamond neck-lace to Mlle. Titiens the other day, with a request in Spanish that she would wear it for the giver. It is said the Prima Donna thinks America is a queer country.

GRAND DUCHESS SCHNEIDER has beaten M. Bertrand, manager of the varieties, in a lawsuit; but she gets only 5,000 francs damages, instead of the 50,000 she wanted, which Lucy Hooper thinks will leave the third floor of Schneider's new hotel unfurnished for a while yet.

CHARLOTTE CRAMPTON, the actress, is dead. She was born in Louisville, Kentucky, nearly sixty years ago, and went upon the stage when she was a mere girl. Her last appearance, we believe, was made about three years ago, when she was a member of Miss Neilson's company.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 116½.

THE Emperor WILLIAM seems popular among the Milanese. He was accorded a magnificent reception, on the occasion of his visit there, and all the surroundings of the affair indicated that it was as earnest as it was ostentatious. An unpopular Prince has developed into the most popular Emperor on the continent.

NO ONE who has been at all conversant with the tendency of events, need be told that the whole drift of popular feeling is steadily against the Democracy,—and that at this time there is not a ghost of show for their ticket being elected. The frantic appeals of the Democratic press affords one line of evidence to this end.

WE HAVE the pleasure to respectfully inform the Post that there are other States besides this where the Constitution forbids the use of funds for sectarian schools, where, by one ingenuity or other, it is done. If there is no sectarian interest in this and other matters, will the Post explain just how it is that our county Democratic ticket was so deliberately set up, one Sunday afternoon, with so many Catholics on it?

AMONG the incidental results of the Exposition is to bring into prominence the merits of STEPHEN C. FOSTER, who as a song-writer achieved such distinction before he died. He lies without monument or special indication of his resting place. The proposition has been started to erect a monument, and it is not unlikely that this will be done. It should be, as an evidence that even hard-handed Pittsburgh can appreciate real and rare poetic merit.

THE most amusing document of the times is a letter from one of the Democratic managers in Ohio, affirming that the defeat there is attributable to the Catholics and not to the currency question. The object of this is to cheer the hearts of the despairing in this State. We do not happen to have the school question in a very prominent shape here, and so we have the pleasing assurance that it was this that killed them. This item of innocency is amusing indeed.

IT SEEMS that the whites made promises to observe the laws in Mississippi, whereupon Governor AMES disbanded the militia. It is equivalent to putting the Democracy of that State on their parole of honor to observe the laws,—a dangerous and doubtful operation, but worth trying, perhaps. If there should now be an outbreak, we can judge of its exact character, and know the precise reason. We strongly incline to think that should it come, the President will see reason for taking part in it.

A REUNION of Confederate and Union soldiers is in progress at Elizabeth, New Jersey. KILPATRICK, PRYOR, PEMBERTON and HALSTEAD are mentioned as the distinguished birds in this flock—and we suppose their calibre is of the best. KILPATRICK has run out as a politician, and HALSTEAD was ashore long ago. PRYOR is a lawyer of some ability, now a resident of Brooklyn, and PEMBERTON is the man who surrendered Vicksburg. We never heard of him, since that event, till now. We do not think any need go into ecstacies over the reunion of a set of bloods of that kind.

THE Post, in place of answering the questions we asked it, accuses us of using billingsgate toward PERSHING. We have not intended to do so. We have declared he was a copperhead during the war,—but his public record proves this. We have referred to his change of vote under the influence of $500,—but this is a well-known fact. We have mentioned the hostility he manifested toward the repeal of the tax on real estate,—and this his legislative record proves. If the mere statement of what he was and has done is billingsgate,—what is the man who did it? Is he not the essence of billingsgate?

IT TURNS out that the surmises relative to the Secretary of the Interior were for once correct. Ex-Senator CHANDLER, of Michigan, is fairly installed into office, as the new Cabinet Minister. He is a bluff, positive man, thoroughly identified with his party, and his appointment will not materially console the independents that have been so long busy in the effort to drive DELANO out. CHANDLER is not their sort of man; and we may look for a howl over this appointment. Yet we are of the opinion that the public service will be benefited by the appointment. CHANDLER is a straight-forward, positive man of business, and will be apt to give the department a sharp business cast, without any mixture of sentimentalism. This is something that office has needed.

THE report of the Red Cloud Commission, as handed to the President, is a voluminous document, and thoroughly treats of all the subjects referred to in the charges of Professor MARSH. It shows that the Commissioners have searched diligently into all sources of information, and their report is based on evidence, gathered at large trouble and labor. That there is a spirit of fairness permeating the entire report, no candid reader will deny. Yet because it does not condemn all and singular, —DELANO, SMITH, and others,—it is declared to be a whitewashing report. This is the unfortunate spirit which, too largely, has obtained hold of the press. Why not yield to the plain requirements of reason? The press have nothing but the hearsay declarations of men, honest and sincere, doubtless, but as liable to be misled as others. These declarations have been sifted by a number of gentlemen, who evidently have been earnest and sincere. The result is, the declaration that an agent,—SAVILLE,—is incompetent, but honest, and that the Indian Office has been at least honestly administered. The system is what is looked at, and this is criticised. While the transfer of the Indian Bureau to the War Department is not demanded, its renovation and reform,—not as to individuals, but the system,—is strongly demanded. A report like this can only be regarded as honest, and hence not of a whitewashing character. We believe what it says, and accept its views as in the main correct.

GOOD ADVICE.

We give, below, an open letter, addressed to Rev. Mr. BROWNE, the Prohibition candidate for Governor, from a ministerial friend, who has labored with him in the cause of temperance. He writes from Ohio, and incidentally shows the exact tendency of the temperance vote. He says that had there been 5,000 additional temperance votes cast there, the effect would have been to put the enemies of temperance in power. In other words, the temperance people, in putting up a separate ticket, work and vote against themselves. The logical conclusion reached is, that they should withdraw their candidate, and sustain the Republican cause. The experience had in this State last year, shows the force of this. There were 5,000 temperance votes cast, and this allowed the Democrats to triumph by 4,000 majority. Those five thousand votes, cast for the Republican ticket, would have elected it. The result was the repeal of the Local Option law. But we give the letter without farther comment:

To Rev. R. A. Browne, D. D.:

MY VERY DEAR BROTHER: You remember that in the year 1854, at a meeting of the A. R. Synod of the West, in Mercer, Pa., you and I offered the resolution, which the Synod passed, declaring the Fugitive Slave Law contrary to the law of God. Cordially we worked together for the freedom of the slave. Both of us did voluntary service in the Union army—you more than I. In the temperance cause, for many years, we have been co-laborers in different and distant fields—mostly in the pulpit, sometimes on the platform and in the halls of State legislation. I love you, and desire to work with you in all moral reforms. Permit me to suggest a serious doubt on my part in reference to the propriety of your candidacy for Governor. I would a thousand times rather have you elected than any of the other candidates, but your election is impossible The vote for you will not show the real strength of the temperance sentiment in your State. The result will likely embolden the friends of the liquor cause. In my State (Ohio) at the recent election, had five thousand more voters cast their ballots for the Prohibition candidates for State officers, the immediate effects surely would have been very disastrous to the temperance cause. I did not vote the Prohibition ticket, though I have been a tectotaler for forty years. Allow me, with the kindest regards to you personally, to suggest the withdrawal of your name as a candidate for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania. In case you can not honorably withdraw, then please bear with me while I, from a conviction of duty, advise the temperance voters to deposit their ballots for the Republican candidate; not for his sake, but to secure the ascendancy of the party which he represents. Certainly the Republican party, as a whole, favors honesty, temperance and Christian morality more than the Democrats do. Yours, truly,

BENJAMIN WADDLE,
Kenton, Ohio.

BUSINESS AND LABOR OUTLOOK.

We are approaching the Winter months, and there is a very natural anxiety to scan the probabilities of the present and future, that the chances for labor and business may be accurately estimated. At the East, the reports are, that while the Fall trade has been larger in volume than was expected, the prices and profits realized were disappointing. Yet the papers speak of a gradual return of confidence,—some assigning this to the Ohio election, and others with more probability, referring it to purely business causes. Westward there is palpably a more confident and hopeful feeling than at the East. This is clearly attributable to the large crops, and the excellent prices for wheat and corn. At Chicago, the merchants report a large volume of trade, principally from the grain-growing regions. This illustrates that the distributing city that is nearest the source of prosperity—the grain-growing territories, is the first to feel the real start toward returning prosperity. Her banks find full use for loanable funds, besides doing an excellent current business, and her merchants have a full line of business, in their respective departments. Chicago has become a large importing city, and this fact accounts for the loss of sales in New York. Formerly, the first indication toward prosperity at the West, was felt in New York; but now, this is not the case,—the West importing direct. Hence the results we see,—Chicago prosperous, and New York dull and comparatively tradeless.

Pittsburgh is located between the two cities mentioned. It did not immediately feel the full force of the panic, and is not entirely affected by the prosperity of either city, so far as its prosperity is concerned. Yet indirectly it is affected by both. The railway interests of the country have more to do with the prosperity of this city than has the commercial prosperity of other cities. When railroads are prosperous, then demands for rails and general supplies, including rolling stock, give activity to our heavy mills, and these, in turn, promote the prosperity of our smaller manufactories. So, on the other hand, our prosperity is promotive of theirs. Yet we are interested in the causes which lead to Chicago's activity, as the grain that promotes it must traverse the country to the seaboard, chiefly by railway. This gives business to the roads, and induces the renewal of supplies. But even here is an unfortunate feature, so far as we are concerned. The railroads are competing with each other, at a killing rate. The Erie road being only compelled to care for current expenses, is able to defy ordinary business rules, and take freight at very low rates. The Baltimore & Ohio, struggling to build up its western trade, does the same thing. Hence rates on through freight are so low, that none of the roads are making satisfactory amounts of money on the business done. We mention these things to show that while one portion of the country may be legitimately prosperous, others that ought th show this prosperity are, by discernible causes, entirely cut off from this prosperity. Such, in a measure, is the situation in Pittsburgh to-day.

It would be absurd, at the present, to attempt to create the impression that we have just broken our bonds, and are in full career of prosperity again. The simple truth is, that our manufacturers are seriously troubled, at least in many lines, to secure sufficient orders to keep their mills running. The reasons for this are contained in what we say above. While pluck and energy are not wanting, there is an undercurrent of fear and uneasiness, as Winter approaches. Our bank boards and business public share this feeling, and we only do our duty in saying to those who do not look far into the future, that they will be wise if they attempt to reduce their expenses to the demands that may come upon them. To speak plainly, we fear a hard Winter is before us. Yet we are free to say that we can plainly see that recuperative influences are at work; and that by Spring, if not sooner, we will sensibly realize that we have passed the worst, and are on the way to renewed prosperity.

The evidences of this are found in a number of facts. The grain crop, when fully exported, will return to us probably $50,000,000 gold. This will be so much added to the confidence-producing capital of the country. Its moral influence will be more valuable than its material advantage. We have now its value in gathered grain; but once sold, and the returns made, and we shall have a large return of confidence, which is now everywhere admitted to be the great need of the times. Let this be in any measure restored, and enterprise will venture forth, and with it prosperity will be with us again. This grain will be shipped during the Fall months, and the returns should be mainly in by midwinter. Hence, before Winter is past, we think there should be a renewal of comparative activity in business. Thus while caution should now be exercised, we do not think the business outlook is largely discouraging. We think the chief struggles, consequent upon the panic are ended; and that new and brighter hopes will soon be born. We would that our mills should be kept running. Where compromises are necessary to this end we hope they will be made, in the hope and belief that whatever deficiencies the Winter may bring will be overcome by the larger prosperity of the coming Spring. Surely the Centennial year with its large influx of foreigners, and its tendency to retain at home our own people will do much to bring the results we desire. We see many reasons for expecting full recuperation next year, and none for doubting it. Thus a few months of struggle, and we think we will emerge into the sunlight of prosperity once more.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE EARLY KINGS OF NORWAY; also an Essay on the Portraits of John Knox. By Thomas Carlyle. Published by Harper & Bros., New York, and for sale in Pittsburgh by R. S. Davis & Co., Liberty street.

There is a strange fascination about this book—the fascination that is possessed by every volume that has emanated from the fertile brain of the great Carlyle. One reads with a keen relish of the old Kings from whom Carlyle brushes the dust of centuries, and brings to the front again. In a few sentences, strong, all comprehensive and perspicuous, each is described, and so down the hill the historian goes, describing, philosophizing, dissecting and presenting pictures that again and again attract attention. Then the essay on the Portraits of John Knox is a fitting close to the book. All the chief portraits are taken up, and the characteristics of the great Reformer shown by them. Nowhere can one gain in so small a compass, half as clear an idea of the great character of Scotland's marvellous reformer.

THE WAY WE LIVE NOW. A novel. By Anthony Trollope. With illustrations. Published by Harper & Bros., New York, and for sale in Pittsburgh by R. D. Davis & Co.

This belongs to Harpers' Select Library. It is a love story, the scenes and characters chiefly relating to English high life. It is written in a free, flowing style, and there are many bright descriptive passages, and occasional touches of humor and sarcasm. Some of the characters are well drawn, with a touch that is lifelike. It deals with the boldness and mockery of modern fashionable life, and yet gives enough of the true ring to make the reader not lose all his faith in humanity. It is plentifully interspersed with love scenes, and there are enough happy marriages at the close. But, after all, it is merely a clever novel, not a strong one—not original, not instructive, or interesting—merely entertaining.

OUR MUTUAL FRIEND. By Charles Dickens, with fifty-eight illustrations. Published by Harper Bros., New York.

This volume belongs to the Household edition of Dickens' works. It is printed on good paper, in clear type, with large margins, and plentifully interspersed with illustrations. It is an attractive book, and the admirers of Dickens will be glad to get a volume so well put together.

A DOUBLE WEDDING; or, How She was Won. By Mrs. C. A. Warfield, author of "The Household of Bouverie." Published by T. B. Peterson & Bros., Philadelphia, and for sale in Pittsburgh by J. R. Weldin & Co.

KINGSBURY SKETCHES. A Truthful and Succinct Account of the Doings and Misdoings of the Inhabitants of Pine Grove. Their Private Trials and Public Tribulations. Published by G. W. Carleton & Co., New York. For sale in Pittsburgh by J. R. Weldin & Co.

This book contains a series of sketches in which the writer aims to be humorous. The most humorous thing about the book is the author's attempt to palm off his idiocy and conceit, for humor. The sketches are supposed to be descriptive of the peculiarities of people and life in a country village, and they are as vapid as cheap attempts at wit could possibly be.

SHELDON & COMPANY will publish in a few days a second series of "Our Poetical Favorites," by Prof. A. C. Kendrick, of Rochester University. This volume will contain selections of longer English poems. The remarkable success of the first series proved that Dr. Kendrick, with his fine poetic taste, had made a selection of unusual excellence, and this new series will doubtless find a ready sale.

POLITICAL NOTES.

GOV. KIRKWOOD carried his own county in Iowa by 150 majority, thus redeeming an old Democratic stronghold.

GEN. SAM CARY is of the solemn conviction that the country has gone to the bowwows. He has evidently mistaken himself for the country.

THE Boston Journal follows up a proposition that Gaston shall follow up Rice through the State and have "the last word," with a hint that he may also follow last in the election returns.

GOVERNOR HAYES, Hon. John Sherman, Hon. Lorenzo Danford, and Gen. Gibson will be in Pennsylvania during the next ten days of the canvass. The State Committees have already arranged appointments.

ABOUT seventy-five clergymen of Boston met on Monday, and after denouncing the license law, adopted resolutions calling on all good men to repudiate at the coming election both the Republican and Democratic candidates for Governor.

GOV. ALLEN says he has not a bit of personal regret at his defeat. He is only sorry for the people and the party. As it is all the people's doing, it doesn't seem necessary for him to waste sympathy on them. They will doubtless be able to bear up under it.

PERSONAL.

KEYSTONE BRVITIES.

THE hinge works at Beaver Falls, under new firm and management, are now running full and strong.

THERE are at present 476 inmates in the Berks County Alms House, about 300 of whom are of foreign birth. Seventy-six paupers were admitted and 2,374 lodgings were given to tramps during the month of September. The tramps are at present taken by the officers of the Alms House to work at the new reservoir.

SOME of the farmers of Bucks county have been badly swindled in the purchase of guano. It came in the original packages, and was bought from the agents of the Peruvian Government in New York. The larger part of it proved to be coarse sand and gravel. It appears that the source of supply has run out and adulteration is being resorted to.

HE burst into the sanctum with a rush, waltzed up to our table swinging a huge vegetable over his head, after the manner of a Fijian war club, and exclaimed: "Woop la! Donder und blitzen! How high low up was dot for a summer radish, eh? More as a pushels of dem would make a peck, ain't it?" and then he stopped jumping up and down and showed us a radish fourteen inches long, fat as an alderman, and weighing four pounds and eleven ounces. Looking sternly at him we inquired: "John Enzer, as you hope to have sauer kraut and limburger cheese for supper, did you raise that radish with your own little hatchet?" And he said: "Yaw, by shimminy, dot ish so, und I vant you to put him in the bapers und show dose Yankee beeples dot de 'tam Dutch' can raise wegitables like eferydings onyhow." And John's laudable ambition shall be gratified. He design taking the radish to the Corry fair, and we think it will hardly be beaten. —Union City Times.

THE WHITECHAPEL MYSTERY.

A New Phase of the Strange Tragedy—Wainwright's Brother Arrested on a Charge of Complicity in the Murder—Antecedents of the Man.

(From the London Standard, Oct. 8.)

The arrest of Thomas George Wainwright as an accomplice of his brother in the murder at Whitechapel has given rise to speculations as to what new phase this tragedy may next assume. Although nothing warranting any decisive action on the part of the police appeared until recently, yet almost from the discovery of the barbarous crime the police entertained suspicions with regard to this man. It is stated that the most conclusive evidence will be brought against him as to the writing of the letter signed "E. Fricake." It is on this ground, and also for personating Mr. Fricake, that the accused was apprehended. Very little stress is laid upon the purchase of the chopper and spade.

The antecedents of Thomas George Wainwright are rather dissimilar from those of his brother Henry in at least one respect. Henry lived with his wife until the day of his apprenension, while Thomas, who is six years younger, deserted his wife and children that he might cohabit with another female. This brother was married about nine years ago, and shortly before that time he inherited a fortune of about £2,000, as did also his brothers Henry and William. He then embarked in business as a furnishing ironmonger in Westminster and everything went on prosperously for a while. Soon after the birth of his first child his trade falled to such an extent that he had to give it up, and for a time he lived what may be termed a quiet life. Then he again went into business, with the assistance of his mother, in the Mile-end road; but, like his previous undertaking, this also failed. Subsequently he became manager of various firms, sometimes traveling on commission, even occasionally acting in this capacity for his brother Henry. During all this time he was not inattentive to his wife and children. The ultimate sphere of his labors was in a firm in Oxford street, where he occupied the position of manager. About two years ago he discarded his wife, who seems a most amiable young woman, leaving three little children entirely dependent on her for support. At infrequent intervals he sent her a small sum of money to assist her, but no amount at all adequate to support his family. For the first six months after his desertion she heard nothing of him, until one day she accidentally met him with a female. She stopped him, and after making some excuse, promised to communicate with her. A few days afterward this same female called on Mrs. Wainwright, and representing herself as the daughter of his employer, wished particularly to know whether Wainwright was a married man, as he had told her he was single. This for the time deceived the wife, but she subsequently ascertained the truth as to their relationship. Previous to discovering this the female called again, represented herself as an actress, and stated she would send "the man home to his wife at once," but nothing more was heard of him until a short time since, when he was found living in a well furnished house at Fulham. Mrs. Wainwright was somewhat surprised that her husband was allowed to escape with the sum of £1 19s in his possession, while she had to depend for her support upon a source to which she was reluctant to apply.

AN EGYPTIAN PRINCESS BURIED.

The Magnificent Funeral of the Favorite Daughter of the Khedive.

(From the Cologne Gazette.)

The Princess Hanem Zeinub—only fifteen years of age—a favorite daughter of the Khedive of Egypt and wife of Ibrahim Pasha, died recently in Alexandria of typhus fever, following shortly after her confinement. The Khedive and his family, as well as his guest, the Sultan of Zanzibar, and the whole city of Alexandria were much disturbed by the sad event, and the theatre was closed for three days. The body was taken to Cairo the same day and placed in the Kasr-el-Nil palace. An immense concourse followed the body to the depot in Alexandria, and hundreds of thousands of lire were distributed among the poor people. The interment took place in the Rilah mosque on the following morning. Twenty-four bullocks, thirty camels and twenty wagons were in the funeral procession. These animals were laden with bread, dates, cooked meats and vegetables; the wagons carried casks of water and of syrup, and all along the route distribution of the provisions was made to the poor. Eunuchs, meantime, threw 450,600 pieces of silver coin to the people who thronged the street. Three thousand priests, some clad in rich vestments of gold and silk, others half naked, followed the wagons, repeating prayers as they marched and clapping their hands. After them came the family of the poor young Princess, and the high officials of state, and then the coffin, borne by officers of rank. Behind this walked three eunuchs, bearing on golden shovels copies of the Koran, to be buried with the deceased. The coffin was of simple, rough-hewed wood, and the corpse was sown up in a linen cloth. Upon the coffin were placed the jewels of the Princess, worth a million and a half dollars. After the burial the priests slaughtered the twenty-four bullocks before the mosque, roasted them and ate them up. The priests remained for seven days in the neighborhood of the grave to pray for the soul of the departed. The Khedive was so overcome with grief that he could not receive any visits of condolence.

Answering Letters.

A great many people in this country are shamefully negligent about answering letters. Nothing is more annoying. In European countries it is regarded as the height of ill-breeding to allow a letter which needs a reply to go unanswered, and so it ought to be considered here. This is a point on which parents should lay great stress to their children. They should be taught to consider it as rude not to reply to a letter which needs attention as to hand a fork with the prong end. The busiest people are generally those who are the most exact in this respect. The late Duke of Wellington, who, it will be admitted, had a good deal on his hands at different time of his life, replied to every letter, no matter from how humble a source. Once a clergyman, who lived in a different part of the Kingdom, wrote his Grace, on whom neither he nor his parish had a shadow of claim, to beg for a subscription to rebuild a church. By return of mail came back a letter from the Duke to the effect that he really could not see why in the world he should have been applied to for such an object; but the parson sold the letter as autograph for £5, and put the Duke down for that amount among the subscribers.

The Children's Bed-Time.

The clock strikes seven in the hall,
The curfew of the children's day,
That calls each little pattering foot
From dance and song and liveliong play.
Their day that in our wider light
Floats like a silver day-moon white,
Nor in our darkness sinks to rest,
But sets within a golden west.

Ah, tender hour that sends a drift
Of children's kisses through the house,
And cuckoo-notes of sweet "Good-night,"
That thoughts of heaven and home arouse;
And a soft stir to sense and heart,
As when the bee and blossom part;
And little feet that patter slower,
Like the last droppings of the shower.

And in the children's rooms aloft
What blossom shapes do gaily slip
Their dainty sheaths, and rosy run
From clasping hand and kissing lip.
A naked sweetness to the eye—
Blossom and babe and butterfly
In witching one, so dear a sight!
An ecstacy of life and light.

And, ah, what lovely witcheries
Bestrew the floor! an empty sock,
By vanished dance and song left loose
As dead birds' throats; a tiny smock
That, sure, upon some meadow grew,
And drank the heaven-sweet rains; a shoe
Scarce bigger than an acorn cup;
Frocks that seem flowery meads cut up.

The lily dress in angel white
To mother's knee they trooping come,
The soft palms fold like kissing shells,
And they and we go singing home—
Their bright heads bowed and worshipping,
As though some glory of the spring,
Some daffodil that mocks the day,
Should fold his golden palms and pray.

The gates of paradise swing wide
A moment's space in soft accord,
And those dread angels, Life and Death,
A moment vail the flaming sword,
And o'er this weary world forlorn,
From Eden's secret heart is borne
That breath of paradise most fair,
Which mothers call "the children's prayer."

Ah, deep, pathetic mystery!
The world's great woe unconscious hang,
A rain drop on a blossom's lip;
White innocence that woos our wrong,
And love divine that looks again,
Unconscious of the cross and pain.
From sweet child-eyes, and in that child
Sad earth and heaven reconciled.

Then kissed, on beds we lay them down,
As fragrant white as clover'd sod,
And all the upper floors grow hushed
With children's sleep, and dews of God.
And as our stars their beams do hide,
The stars of twilight, opening wide,
Take up the heavenly tale at even,
And light us on to God and heaven.

Beating a Sewing Machine Agent.

They tell of a widow, of Leesport, Pa., who got the best—heaven bless her!—of a sewing machine agent. Her husband some time previous to his death had purchased a machine, promising to pay for it in monthly installments. He had paid nearly the entire sum when he died, and the widow was unable to make up the balance. The agent called for the machine, and the widow demanded a portion of the money that had been paid. This was refused in a surly way. Then the widow locked the doors of the house, putting the key in her pocket, and told the agent he could have the machine when he returned the money, and not before. "She took hold of him," says the account, "and a severe and prolonged tussle ensued, while the children screamed and cried. The widow threw the agent over the hot kitchen stove, and finally succeeded in sitting him down on the top of it, and held him while he begged piteously for mercy, 'For God's sake, let me go, and I'll pay you back every cent your husband paid me.' Being satisfied that he was severely scorched, she pulled him off the stove, but held on to him until he had paid back every cent of the installments, and then she gave him two minutes' time to take the machine and clear out with it."

Is There a Portrait of Pocahontas?

There has been among the descendants of the Indian Princess a considerable interest respecting a veritable portrait of her. A gentleman of Richmond has for several months been conducting a correspondence with gentlemen in England on this subject, and there is reason to believe that there are several portraits still extant which are authentic, and that an original of a "true copy" may be obtained for our gallery of historic Virginians. There is no doubt that a portrait was taken of Pocahontas when in England, and it is natural to suppose that the original, or a copy thereof, may be in possession of the Rolfe family, of which Pocahontas' husband was a cadet. The last advice from England is that there is still extant a portrait of the Princess and her son.

THE latest discovery at Pompeii is that of the figure of a woman lighting a fire in the cookstove while her husband is asleep in bed. Nothing of the lost arts about that.

WEDNESDAY, October 20, 1875. }

The better weather of yesterday contributed to greater activity in banking and business circles. The streets were largely thronged with people, many of whom were from the country, and visitors of the Exposition—but who availed themselves of the opportunity to make purchases and transact business. Thus our merchants were benefited, and our banks advantaged. In any event, whatever the reason, there was palpably an improvement in the volume of business, and all were correspondingly cheered. The general market, however, is not materially improved. Real estate, manufactures, rents, and all that pertains to business prosperity has been, and is in a depressed condition. Yet we discover an undercurrent of hopefulness, which indicates a belief that the worst is passed and is drawing near. This of itself will contribute to what is so much desired.

The Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims reassembled in Washington about ten days ago. They have so far disposed of 700 cases, and have awarded judgments to the amount of $1,700,000, with interest amounting to more than $755,000. The latter item will increase, of course, till the day of payment. The Government has against about $3,225,000 in claims that have been disallowed or dismissed,—130 in number.

Some very curious claims have been presented. One of a gentleman who put a question of "inferential damages" was for "prospective profits" that were not realized on account of the Alabama's interference. It was the cost of a whaler, fitted out for a thirty months' cruise, which was pursued on her way to the Arctic Ocean by the Alabama, compelled to leave the fishing ground, and prevented from returning there for some time, but was not captured. The season's catch was thus missed, and the "prospective profits" of that season was estimated at $50,000. The case was elaborately argued, but the Court held that the claim was excluded by a law of Congress which limited claims to damage that resulted directly from the cruisers. The Court has followed the strictest interpretation of this section of the law. Damages are allowed for goods actually destroyed at the value of the goods at the place and time of shipment, with 6 per cent. interest till date of destruction; for loss of freight from time that freight began to be earned; and for all goods purchased in coin the value is estimated at the depreciation of the currency at the time the purchase was made.

New York, October 19, 1875.

The money market was easy at 2@3 per cent.; prime mercantile paper 6@7. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $327,000. The clearings were $31,000,000. Sterling was heavy at 4 76@480. Gold opened at 116¼ and closed at 116½, the two extremes of the day. The rates paid for borrowing were 5-64, 1-32, 1-16, 3-64, and finally 1-64 per cent. per diem. Governments were firm. Railroad bonds were dull and lower. Central Pacifics fell off to 106, Union Pacific 1st 3 to 98, Land grants to 88, and sinking funds to 88. Chicago and Northwestern consolidated coupon gold bonds were quiet.

The stock market opened firm and higher, the improvements ranging from ¼ to 1¾ per cent. Pacific Mail led the advance, rising from 36¼ to 38⅝ on large business. Lake Shore rose from 54¾ to 55¾. Western Union advanced from 73¾ to 74¼, reacted to 73¾, and later recovered. Northwest rose from 38½ to 39½, pf. Paul from 32 to 32¾, preferred from 61¾ to 61¾, and Ohio from 15¾ to 16. In some cases there was a partial reaction. After midday Union Pacific advanced to 67, and later declined to 66¼. Missouri sold at 14¾@15¾@14¾@15. Missouri Pacific declined from 15¾ to 15.

At the second call the market was firm. Stocks were firm and higher during the last hour of business, the closing quotations being generally the highest of the day. Pacific Mail was the leading feature, rising to 38¾, an advance of ¾ per cent. from the opening price, and the closing sales were at 38¾. Lake Shore advanced 1 to 55¾, Northwest to 39, St. Paul to 32½, Western Union to 74¾, and Ohio to 16¾. Missouri Pacific declined from 15¾ to 15¾. The other stocks were less important. The general tone of the market to-day was much stronger than for some time past, and buying was attended with increased confidence as to the future.

The directors of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company held a meeting this afternoon and ratified the sale recently negotiated of four of their old wooden side wheel steamers (the Costa Rica, Oregonian, Golden Age and Nevada) to the Militza Bitsche Company of Japan. This company receives a subsidy from the Japanese Government, and represents it. The steamers sold were run between Shanghai and Yokohama in opposition to a line of the Militza Bitsche Company, their present purchasers. The Pacific Mail lost on this line last year nearly $200,000. The price obtained for the steamers was $700,000 in Mexican silver, equivalent in our currency to nearly $500,000. The sale furnishes the Pacific Mail Company with means to pay all its obligations except the loan of the Panama Railroad, and places the company in a better financial condition than for years past. The Militza Bitsche Company offers to run the steamers bought so as to connect with the main line of the Pacific Mail.

The transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 162,000 shares, of which 72,000 were Pacific Mail, 30,000 Western Union, 6,600 Northwest common, 11,000 Erie, 28,000 Lake Shore, 2,200 Ohios, and 6,000 Missouri Pacific.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
TUESDAY, October 19, 1875. }

There is an easier feeling in Grain and Flour, and dealers generally report trade dull. The grocery trade is also falling off, and the inquiry for Provisions is not as brisk as it has been. The demand for country produce keeps up pretty well, and notwithstanding there is a good supply, is bringing very fair prices; about the only change to report is in Eggs and Cheese, both of which are higher.

APPLES—Regular jobbing sales at $3@4 per barrel for fair to prime.

BUTTER—The market is well supplied, and dealers generally report prices easier, although not quotably lower; prime to choice rolls, 27@30c; choice, solid packed, 23@25c.

CHESTNUTS—$3 per bu, and dull.

CIDER—$4@$5 per barrel.

CHEESE—The market continues firm, and prices are still tending upward; prime August brands, Ungraded, September, 14@14½c.

BEANS—Medium is quoted at $1.90@2 per bushel, navies at $2@2.10.

EGGS—Receipts light, stock, and prices are higher. Sales reported to-day at 22@23c.

FLOUR—Trade continues quiet; prices unchanged. Old winter wheat, Tom@7.25 for red, and $7.50@8 for amber and white; new red winter, $6.50@7; old spring, $7@7.75; new do, $6.50@7. The notable figures for Minnesota Rye flour, $5.5.75 per barrel. Buckwheat Flour, 3½@3¾c per pound.

GROCERIES—Trade is only moderate, it is not brisk as it was last month, but the leading articles are devoid of any new or important features to which reference has not been made in these columns. The following are the regular jobbing rates:

SUGARS.
Crushed	11¾	Standard B	10¾
Granulated	11¼	Ex C (standard)	10¼

Maryland	45	White Drips	65@70
Silver Drips	60	Extra Golden	70@75

GRAIN—Though there is a fair inquiry in Wheat, notwithstanding the receipts continue liberal there appears to be no accumulation; country millers are buying pretty freely, and the market generally at various points in the interior within the past few weeks. Prices remain about as last quoted; sales of car lots of No 2 red winter wheat at $1.30@1.31; No 3 do at $1.25@1.26; No 2 car and a half, old and new, at $1.40. The Oat market continues a little active, but prices have undergone no change; good Beans, Canada and Ohio, 43@45c; mixed do, 41@42c. Corn is not much called for, but the supply is small and prices are maintained; old shelled, 69@7c, on track; do car 70@72c, according to quality. Rye is still offered at 80@85c, and Spring Barley at from $1.10@1.20.

HAY—The market for bales continues dull, but for loose there is a good demand. Timothy, prairie, $18@19; timothy, $17@20, according to quality and position.

ONIONS—$2@2.50 per bbl.

POTATOES—Steady and firm on track, at 40@45c per bushel, the outside figure for peach blows; sweets $2@3 per barrel, the outside figure for Jerseys.

PROVISIONS—Trade is slacking off somewhat, as it usually does at this particular time, but as stocks are light, prices are fully sustained, and the indications are that the stock of old will be almost exhausted before the new makes its appearance.

Hams—Extra S. C. per lb	16¾	Lard, Prime Leaf in tierces, per lb	14½
Do, sugar cured	15½	Do, in kegs	15½

POULTRY—Live Chickens 50@60c ₱ pair, by the coop.

SEEDS—Good timothy, 2½@3.

SEEDS—Sales of Timothy Seed at $2.35@2.40 to the trade, and $2.65@2.70 in a small way.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
TUESDAY, October 19, 1875. }

The market both for the raw article and product continues firm; although there was but little change in prices as compared with yesterday, the tendency is still upward. Crude was quoted at $1.75@1.77½ for immediate shipment; United Certificates, $1.45¾; Union dittos, $1.48@1.47¾; Conduit, $1.50. The general position of the trade continues to be favorable to producing interest; unless some more strikes in new territory are reported the outlook at the present writing warrants the prediction that prices will be still higher, as the consumption is considerably in excess of the production. Refined also firmer, but quiet; Philadelphia, bulged 1c on cars here and 13½c delivered in Philadelphia.

The Barrel market continues dull; countries quoted at $1.35@1.40, and City marks at $1.50.

Wool in New York.

The position of affairs on this market remains about as last recorded, and we have no really new points to present. The supplies here are comparatively moderate, especially of fleeces and pulled wools, while those in store about as confined as ever, and no offerings making except at extreme rates, while the demand continues fair, and buyers appear to accept the situation readily. Manufacturers, however, are evidently not as free as buyers as a week or two ago, partly owing to the accumulation of stocks in many parts of the mills, and partly owing to an occasional attempt made to crowd a little on values. On California grades the tone is somewhat unsettled, with a tendency if anything to slightly in buyers' favor. No quotable concessions are named, and the arrivals of fall are not large; quoted, extra, old, 41@42c; fine, 40@41c; medium, good to choice, 46@48c; coarse, 43@44c; fine delaine, 46@48c; coarse do, 43@44c; pulled extra, 46@48c; No 1 do, 42@44c; No 2 do, 38@40c; fine unwashed Indiana and Western fine delaine, 40@42c; medium, 42@44c; coarse, 40@42c; combing unwashed 42@44c; fine unwashed coarse, 38@40c; medium, 40@42c; coarse, 38@40c; tub-washed delaine, 48@50c; extra and merino pulled 38@42c; No 1 and super pulled 36@42c.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, October 19.—The package trade in domestic cotton and woolen goods is light, and jobbing branches are inactive. Cotton goods moved quietly in agents' hands. Bleached cottons ruled quiet, and sheeting was reduced to 6½c. Brown goods and gingham are in steady request and firm; delaines, Cocheco, Lancaster, and Manchester fancies firmly held up. Spring prints are in limited demand, but cassimeres are dull. Flannels are in light request.

Cotton.

NEW YORK, October 18.—Cotton quiet at 11¾@11¾c; futures closed weak; November 11 7-16@11 9-32c; December 11 15-16@11 31-32c; January 12 7-16@12 15-32c; February 12 9-16@12 19-32; March 13@13 3-32; April 13 15-16@13 3-32c; May 14@14 1-32c.

NEW ORLEANS, October 19.—Cotton: demand fairly sales of 4,900 bales; prices irregular and generally easier; good ordinary no strict good ordinary; low middling 11¾c; middling 12¼c; good do 12¾c; middlings 12¾@12¾c; good middlings to middlings fair 13¼@13¾c; receipts 2,797 bales; gross 6,754; exports coastwise 73; stock 79,977.

Chicago Seed Market.

Little interest was manifested in this market, and no particular change to note in prices. There were a few orders on the market for prime timothy, but there being none offered no sales were reported. There was a quiet demand for small lots of common on the market, but for these there was no demand. Quotations range at 1.85@2.15 for common; 2.25@2.30 for prime. Clover was nominal at 6@6.40, according to quality. Poor to good flax ranged at $1.20@1.30 for new and some common Hungarian on the market, for which no respectable bid could be obtained.

L. A. WELSH,
Sergeant Signal Service, U. S. A.

THE stage of water last evening was 3 feet 7 inches, and falling slowly. Cloudy and cool. Business improving, although far from being active, or what it should be, even with a low stage of water.

THE Ashland is laid up temporarily at Cincinnati.

NICK and Joseph Witten are the pilots on the Emma Graham.

CAPT. L. H. WHITTAKER is still confined to his home with rheumatism.

THE Exchange was to have been turned over to Capt. Rhoads on Monday.

THE John Gilmore, en route from Louisville to this port, passed Cincinnati Monday evening.

THE John L. Rhoads left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh Saturday. Pilots, Jos. Alexander and Jas. Lowry.

THE Venture went out last night to meet the Jno. L. Rhoads and assist her up. The Rhoads will load here early in port for Louisville.

THE steamer Carroll is on her way to St. Louis from Yankton, and will probably arrive there some time early in next week.

THE Argo has been chartered by Capt. Jno. Tripplett to run from Owensboro to Evansville in connection with the railroad.

THE Undine, the English tug-boat tender Lily was to leave Cincinnati on Monday for Pittsburgh. Captain Sam. Parker will be her pilot.

MR. JOHN H. KLINE, the well known editor of the Louisville Courier, was in town yesterday taking in the Exposition and other points of interest.

THE Argo has been chartered by Capt. Jno. Tripplett to run from Owensboro to Evansville in connection with the railroad.

THE Rover with two additional barges departed for St. Louis yesterday. As previously stated, she double tripped to Wheeling, and from the latter point she will load for St. Louis.

AND now they are diving after another steamboat load of whisky lost in the Missouri river near Rocheport City. It is said that 1,000 barrels of whisky a half century old is not to be sneezed at.

CAPT. BEN. HALL, of the Alice Brown, will leave for home in a day or two if there is no change in the programme. Capt. Ben. says that while the fare at home may not be quite as good as it is at the St. Charles, it is not so objectionable.

THE Sanchos arrived from Cincinnati with a fair trip, and as will be seen by card, she will leave for that point again day or two after the Sun. The Sanchos has excellent accommodations for passengers and will go through on time.

NORTHERN line boats are no longer passing Cairo. The Keokuk brought in the last of the Northern boats for all way points as far up as St. Paul, the Keokuk boats resupplying at Keokuk on the Missouri and the Rock Island on the right.

THE Cincinnati Gazette of Monday says: The Emma Graham left for Pittsburgh Saturday instead of Sunday, back in time to load again next day. She had a light start. Nick Whitten and Capt. Martin left on the Graham. Mr. Whitten will take Martin's place at some point above.

THE Emma Graham was due from Cincinnati last night and will be found in port this morning when her card will be found. She had been thoroughly overhauled and painted at Cincinnati, and will depart this afternoon promptly at three o'clock. Passengers and shippers may rest assured that the Graham will leave promptly as advertised.

A ST. Louis paper says: The Great Republic is to be taken off the line as soon as her cabin is finished; it will be 300 feet long, and 37 feet beam. It is thought she will carry no less more than any river steamer ever built, and will be the largest boat on the same magnificent scale. The "finest in the world," will grace the new hull as did the old.

HOME NEWS.

Mr. Charles Linford.

We have been reliably informed that Mr. Charles Linford the artist is about to leave Pittsburgh for Philadelphia, probably to make the latter city his place of residence, during the Centennial year at least. Mr. Linford is among the foremost of our landscape painters, and we trust his art will be appreciated by the Philadelphians in the manner and degree it so richly merits. We shall always have pleasant recollections of his characteristic and pleasing pictures, and the delightful receptions in his studio from time to time, and hope, also, the gentleman will achieve in full with the bright skies and clear atmosphere of the East, the most cherished ideal in art it has ever been his desire to attain.

[illegible] Sunday.

In the range of a [illegible] yesterday, in a case of assault and battery, upon a police officer, [illegible] some seasonable remarks upon the [illegible] ality of persons arrested submitting quietly to the officers. He said quite a number of cases had been before him in which parties had, under resistance to the arresting officers, been badly used up, and then complained loudly of the treatment they received at the hands of the officer. When an officer undertakes to arrest on a warrant, or when a breach of the peace has been committed in his presence, it is the duty of the party whom he attempts to take in charge, to submit. If he resists he does so at his peril. Often the resistance of persons results in injury to themselves, and sometimes, as in a case recently before him, in death. It is absolutely necessary that this principle be enforced, and if the party having submitted is ill-treated, he has his remedy by law.

Alleged Abuse of a Child.

Yesterday afternoon information was left at the Allegheny Mayor's office that a man had entered the residence of a Mr. Daul mann, on East street, near the city line, on Monday afternoon, and there being no person at home except a fourteen year old daughter of Mr. D., he presented her with a bill to give to her father. He then knocked her down and tied her feet together and then fastened her to a chair with chains. He then took some powder from a small box and forced her to swallow it, and she became insensible. While in this condition he committed an indecent assault upon her. Detectives Bowden and Geary were sent out to investigate the matter at once. They returned last evening and stated that they had heard the above facts from the girl herself, excepting that she had been personally abused. They were unable to learn anything further about the matter, or get any trace to the whereabouts or identity of the man.

DEFEATED.

A Reverse to the Xanthas at Meadville.

The second of the series of games of ball between the Xantha club, of Allegheny, and the Mutuals, of Meadville, for the championship of Western Pennsylvania, was played yesterday at Greenville, Pa., and won by the latter by a score of nine to eight. The attendance was quite large and very good, and the contest quite an interesting one. These clubs are now equal in their score, the Xanthas having won the first game. A third will have to be played to decide the question of superiority. The score of yesterday's match by innings is as follows:

Innings....	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Mutuals....	1	1	0	0	6	0	0	0	1—9
Xanthas....	3	0	1	0	2	0	0	2	0—8

The Xanthas play to-day with the Oil City club.

GARROTED.

A Puddler Choked and Robbed.

It appears that the Second Ward is laboring and with good prospects of success, to obtain the distinguished honor of being the scene of more nightly crimes than any other part of the city, or all the rest of the city together. Here is the last case: On Monday evening, about seven o'clock, a puddler, named Harry Ross, was garroted and robbed. He was passing along Troy street, near Fourth avenue, when two men sprang from an alley, and while one seized him by the throat the other went through his pockets, taking therefrom a watch worth $14 and a pocket-book containing $7.50. Neither of the men spoke, and both fled as soon as they had completed their work. The affair was so quickly over that Ross scarcely realized what was going on until he became satisfied of his loss. There was no clue to the robbers, other than that one of them wore a heavy white coat.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Jane Marshall.

Announcement was made yesterday morning, among her friends in the city, of the demise of Mrs. Jane Marshall, an old and estimable lady who made her home with her son-in-law, Mr. Ralph Hepplewhite, of Banksville, Union township, this county. The deceased had been in feeble health for some years, but happily escaped severe sufferings and came to her death as the result of old age, rather than from any special illness from disease. She was in the seventy-sixth year of her age at the time of her death, and was one of the most widely known and greatly beloved residents of the section in which she for so many years had made her home.

Mrs. Marshall, or "Widow Marshall," as she was more familiarly known, lost her life-companion many years ago, and in all subsequent years was a patient sufferer in the state of widowhood. She made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Hepplewhite, of Banksville, but exchanged visits among her other children. Three sons and one daughter are now living: Mr. Wm. Marshall and Mrs. Hepplewhite, residing at Banksville and Messrs. Robert and John Marshall, the well known founders, making their headquarters in this city. At the time of her death she was with her daughter, and the loving care and attention of all her children soothed her last hours with all the comfort and consolations that could come through human love and sympathy.

The deceased had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the greater part of her life. She worshipped with the congregation in Knowlson's M. E. Church, and never missed a service when health permitted her attendance. She was faithful in her church duties, and was thus not only in outward profession a Christian, but emphasized that profession by a faultless Christian walk and conversation. She was one in whom all the Christian virtues were exemplified in the highest degree, and to know her was to love and esteem.

In social life she was kind hearted, sympathetic and of a cheerful spirit, and association with her was always of a beneficial and pleasant character. She was, in all things, indeed, one of those described in sacred writ as one whose "price is far above rubies." As it lived, so she rightly she died well, and when the messenger came she was found ready to enter upon the realities of the eternal world. She died the death of the righteous, and her memory is as a precious fragrance in the church and among all with whom she was in life associated.

The last tribute of respect will be paid to the remains this afternoon, when the funeral takes place at two o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Hepplewhite, in Banksville.

POLITICAL.

County Committee Meeting—Speeches this Week—The Lincoln Club Rooms.

The Republican County Executive Committee met yesterday afternoon, at their rooms on Diamond street, Russell Errett, Esq., in the chair.

A dispatch was read from Private Dalzell, stating that he would be here on Thursday night and deliver a speech. It was also stated that Senator John Sherman had been expected here this week, but that he could not come until some time next week; that Hon. Lorenzo Danford and Hon. Edward McPherson would be in the city on Saturday evening, and Gov. Hartranft and Hon. W. W. Ketchum on Monday evening next. Mr. Danford, who is from Ohio, will speak in City Hall on Saturday night and on the South Side on Monday night. He is pronounced the finest speaker in the State of Ohio. A meeting has also been arranged to be held at the corner of Kirkpatrick street and Webster avenue, on Thursday evening. The speakers will be Private Dalzell, Prof. Howard Day, W. C. Moreland, J. S. Slagle, Paul Carson and H. C. Campbell. All the colored Republican marching clubs will turn out on this occasion.

The Republicans of Bellevue borough will hold a mass meeting to-morrow evening at the public school house. W. P. Fetterman, D. McIntosh, J. S. Ferguson, John S. Robb, Esq., and other prominent speakers will be present and deliver addresses. Previous to the meeting a parade through the principal streets of the borough will take place by the Jack's Run and Sewickley Hartranft clubs, accompanied by the Excelsior brass band, of Bellevue.

A meeting will also be held this evening at Castle Shannon, at which a number of well known Pittsburghers will make speeches.

The Lincoln club rooms have been very prettily furnished within the past few weeks. The walls have been decorated with numerous harmonious colors, and eleven pink columns run up in different parts of the room. Between the columns are panels of stone color, with a rosette at either side of the top. At each side of the main columns is a small column with a representation of a sturgeon with an arrow piercing it. The base of the columns is pearl color picked in with five different tints. The ceiling is a series of panels and cornice, and is composed of five different tints. On the walls are hung four pictures. One fine large one of Lincoln; a small one of Grant, and one of Hartranft. The other is of bronze, and represents three heads with the following inscription: "Triumviri Americani; pater 1789; salvator 1861; custor 1869." The heads of Washington, Lincoln and Grant are represented.

W. D. WOOLSLAYER, Esq., left last evening to look after the interests of Hartranft and Rawle among the miners in Tioga county. He thinks, however, that they are all right.

Harvin's Superior Cracker Meal,

For frying egg plant, cutlets, fish, oysters, &c., is better than rolled crackers. Full directions with each package. Sold by all grocers.

THE EXPOSITION.

A Great Increase in the Attendance—A Very Large Turnout Last Night—The Beauty and Fashion of the Cities Represented—The New Pictures in the Art Gallery—Fresh Attractions—Notes from the Stands—More of the Fine Displays.

The people are beginning to thoroughly wake up to the great attractions at the Exposition. Yesterday and last evening the attendance was very large—larger than it has been at any time since the doors were thrown open. In the [illegible] especially the crowds turned out in force, and the [illegible] conspicuous feature of the animated throngs which gave [illegible] and rare beauty to the general display. The scene was a very brilliant [illegible] evening, and a sight of the laughing, chattering and joyous throngs was of itself a sufficient compensation for a visit without anything else.

THE BALLOON.

The balloon was so badly damaged by the trip on Monday that all day yesterday was occupied in repairing it, and still to-day will be occupied in the same way. Another ascension will be made on Thursday or Friday, when the contract with the balloonists expires and it will probably not be renewed.

STOCK.

The display of cattle is also large, and attracts considerable attention. Two Texan cattle which together weigh 4,800 pounds, and which received the prize at the Kentucky fair, are on exhibition in the cattle sheds.

POWER HALL

now sends forth a hum and buzz which is real pleasant to hear. Machinery is continually being put up and started in motion, until there is an air of life and activity in that department of the Exposition that adds fifty per cent. to the interest in the show. Then the agricultural machines at the east end of the hall are running, and contribute to the scene of busy confusion. The hum of the busy buzz-saw and the roar and rattle of the planer, make it a pleasant resort for mechanics and those interested in machinery. Some of the machines are very fine and command no little attention. The big brick machine is now put in position, while an immense steam engine of a new style will be on its pins today.

THE ART GALLERY.

The hanging Committee is full of business. The long looked for Chicago pictures have arrived, and by the time this is in print, will have taken their places on the walls. There are ninety-three pictures in the lot. It was found necessary to hang the gallery yesterday, as the hanging of the pictures could not be proceeded with while the crowds kept coming and going. The Hanging Committee propose to put the most of the newly arrived pictures in the smaller room, but the largest ones of the collection will be hung in the main room. The collection is a remarkably fine one, and when the work of placing the pictures in position and hanging them is finished, the visitors to the Art Gallery will be treated to such an artistic display as has never been seen before in Pittsburg. Some of them were in place last night and the effect was beautiful in the extreme. Both rooms will be open to-day.

EXCURSIONS.

Smythe has arranged for several excursions. The first one under his management, comes from Butler, on Saturday, arriving here at half-past ten in the morning. A large delegation is expected from that town. Other excursions have also been arranged for over the Pan Handle Road, and from up the Monongahela Valley. The Butler excursionists will be escorted from the depot by the Great Western Band.

BEFFER RAILROAD ARRANGEMENTS.

The Executive Committee have been in correspondence for some days with the various railroad officials relative to securing more favorable facilities and better inducements for the people of surrounding towns to visit the Exposition. Yesterday morning, in an interview which the Secretary and with several of the officials of the Ft. Wayne, and the Cleveland and Pittsburgh roads, the Executive Committee was informed, through him, that the time would be extended on those roads to four days for all points beyond the reach of the accommodation trains.

FAIR DELEGATES FROM BEAVER.

The beautiful suburban town of Beaver is to be represented on Saturday by a very attractive delegation, as that is the time which has been fixed upon for the visit of the young ladies from Beaver college. The Chicago pictures will be nowhere, in comparison, on that day.

BETTER THAN CHICAGO.

Mr. J. D. Layng, General Manager of the Pennsylvania Company, in speaking of the Exposition yesterday, to one of the members of the Executive Committee, expressed it as his opinion that the Pittsburgh Exposition was far superior to that of Chicago, both of which he had seen this year. He thought that our Exposition wasn't "blown up" half enough. Such an opinion, from such a source, tends to make the managers and people, too, feel just a little proud.

BRIEFS.

Mr. Will S. Hayes, the well known composer of so many of our popular songs, and at present of the Louisville Courier-Journal, visited the Exposition yesterday morning.

The Beaver Falls Cutlery Works will shut down three days next week in order to give all its employes and attaches an opportunity to attend the Exposition.

One of the Chicago pictures is eight by twelve feet.

The Executive Committee have tendered the Bankers' Association the use of the Press Headquarters and free admission, on next Monday evening, on the occasion of their annual meeting.

CONNELLY'S FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

Yesterday afternoon there was another trial of the Connelly Fire Extinguisher which has been successfully exhibited on previous trials, and demonstrated very clearly the great advantages of this new appliance for preventing conflagrations. The inventor, Dr. Connelly, proposes to continue these tests, and to show still further the merits of his patent. Another connection has been made with Power Hall which will give a force sufficient to throw the stream of water about 200 feet, or 100 feet. A stream will be thrown also out of the windows at the extreme end of the building through an inch nozzle. Dr. Connelly also expects to show the efficiency of the apparatus in a hot gas test on the extinguisher building which has been erected at the south side of the grounds, and will also make some further tests on the oil tanks. He will thus prove to his people by ocular demonstration that his extinguisher is the thing to squelch fires.

JAPAN WARE.

A beautiful assortment of Japan ware is that exhibited by Messrs. Fleming, Agnew & Co. in the northwest corner of the main floor. These goods are all made of the best tin, and the japanning is done in the world-renowned Wilkinsburg works. The designs are new and are very handsome. This stock wins universal praise from house-keepers whose opinion is the best guarantee of the excellence of the work.

J. G. WEIR & BRO.

A fine sample of the work turned out from the wagon manufactory of J. G. Weir & Bro. is on exhibition on the main floor, not far from the main entrance, and on the same side of the building. It is a heavy two-horse wholesale grocery wagon, set on springs, and built up with a rack in addition to the regular bed. It is made so that the team can be turned at right angles with the wagon while the vehicle is being loaded or unloaded. There is a high seat on springs for the driver. The woodwork is not too heavy—everything is so compactly put together and so well braced that it is like one solid piece, and is much stronger than some of the lumbering vehicles, whose chief characteristic is the amount of timber wasted. This model wagon for lightness combined with strength. It is painted in bright colors, and is really one of the most substantial as well as one of the prettiest vehicles of the kind we have ever seen. It came from the wagon manufactory corner of Washington and Poplar streets, and is a fair sample of the general character of the work put out by Messrs. J. G. Weir & Bro.

FINE CARPETS.

The very fine display of rich and elegant carpets, which represents the house of Messrs. D. & F. S. Welty at the Exposition, is worthy of special attention for the ladies. They will find that the designs are new, and the carpets of a very superior character. The stock is not a "fancy" one selected especially for display, but is a fair average of the class of goods kept at Nos. 115 and 117 Federal street, Allegheny by this enterprising firm. This house has a reputation for keeping goods that can be relied upon, and their guarantee is a sufficient endorsement of anything they offer for sale.

CEMENT.

Messrs. Mills & Co., of No. 258 Liberty street, in addition to the patent roof, of which we gave a full description the other day, also exhibit samples of cement, lime, and plaster—specialties in which they deal. The cement they claim to be of a superior character, and warrant it to stand every reasonable test. It has been extensively used for years for all purposes to which cement can be put, and has never yet failed to give satisfaction. Builders who can thoroughly understand what a good article is, are invited to take a look at their samples of cement, lime and plaster. The samples are just the kind that they sell to their patrons, and were not gotten up merely for a fancy display. They are on the north gallery on the front avenue, near the music stand. A miniature house serves to make their stand conspicuous.

THE HOUSEKEEPERS ALL PRAISE

the display made by Messrs. Abdiel McClure & Co., of 362 Penn avenue, because the stock on exhibition embraces that popular dirt eradicator, Troxel's "Pride of the Kitchen Soap." There is no dirt around the house where this soap is used, because it so lightens the labors of the servant that she can get through her work so much faster, and so can cover that much more ground. It cleans paints, polishes tinware, and brightens all metals about the house. The beauty of it is that it does this work without destroying the article so cleaned or injuring it in any way. It has become so popular that all the grocers keep it, and it has a ready sale.

TOOTHSOME SWEETMEATS.

Every visitor who is possessed of the proverbially "sweet tooth"—and who is not—takes a lively interest in inspecting the display made by Reynier & Bros., the well-known confectioners of Nos. 126, 128 and 130 Wood street. Their show cases contain 400 varieties of French and ordinary candies, of every conceivable shade of deliciousness from the costliest to the plainest. Overhead hangs a monster "mint-stick," four and a half feet long, and weighing forty pounds, and another monster stick six feet long, and weighing thirty pounds. It is an inimitably attractive display of sweets.

In addition to the sugary display, they also exhibit a fine stock of canned goods—embracing all kinds of fruits, put up in a manner that excites admiration from the most experienced housewife. Altogether this is one of the best displays of any in the Exposition.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Messrs. Harris & Ewing's display of drugs and chemicals attracts great attention from the people generally as well as from the druggists, who can appreciate it more especially. The people are attracted to it because it is really a very pretty display—one that has been arranged with much taste, and with as much regard to harmony of colors as the pictures in the Art Gallery. Then druggists are interested in it because there are goods on exhibition which are very rare, and which no other house in the city could show. There are a number of specialities in the display, some of which we have heretofore noted, and all of which will repay a careful inspection by every dealer. The stand is on the north gallery to the rear, and not far from the music stand.

"THERE'S MUSIC IN THE AIR."

Nearly all day long around the stand of Messrs. Mellor & Hoene, and it is real genuine music too—music that one does not often get an opportunity to enjoy. The music comes from the magnificent specimens of the Chickering piano and from the Mason & Hamlin organs. The richness of the tone of the Chickering is brilliantly exemplified when one of the skilled performers, who are always on duty at the stand, commences to manipulate the keys. The melody is equally enjoying, whether coming from the Grand Concert or the magnificent Upright.

Then for those who prefer organ to piano music, the Mason & Hamlin organs are there. One of these is the $800 pipe top organ, which is a rare specimen—both as to exterior manufacture and musical powers. Whenever the keys are touched this organ speaks for itself. Messrs Mellor & Hoene have done well thus give the thousands of visitors to the Exposition opportunity to have auricular proof of just what the Chickering and Mason & Hamlin can do. Hearing these instruments is to be convinced.

J. MEYER & SON.

In the furniture department on the south side near the center, a very fine display is made by Messrs. J. Meyer & Son, of Nos. 412 and 414 Penn avenue. This firm has long enjoyed a reputation as one of the leading houses in the city, and the display made is fully up to their reputation. There are chairs, tables, bedstead, washstand, wardrobe, and little kick nacks, which will attest the excellence of their workmanship. The three articles, however, which especially exhibit the character of their work are the desk, wardrobe and sideboard. The desk is what is known as the French cylindrical counting house. It is beautifully made of black walnut with French veneering in the panels. The top in front is cylindrical—the leaf folding into the desk when open. There are drawers down each side and one in the center just under the leaf. The desk can be closed with all the papers lying upon it, and when the key is turned in the lock of the "leaf," all the drawers are locked at the same time. Bidlebaurd is another magnificent piece of work. It is made of walnut, highly polished, with French veneering in the panels, and marble top. It is superb. The wardrobe is of the usual size and is made of the same material—black walnut with French veneering, and carved work. In each door a fine French plate glass mirror is set, extending from the bottom to the top. It is a rare specimen of workmanship. The sole display indeed has nothing superior in the Exposition.

J. F. YOUNG & BRO.

Messrs. J. F. Young & Bro., of No. 141 Smithfield street, display fine specimens of their manufactures in the way of show cases, mirrors, frames, &c. They also have two stands in the south gallery—one against the wall and the other out on the front avenue directly opposite. The stand against the wall is taken up with mirrors and pictures frames, of which there is a some selection. There are three large mantel mirrors with walnut frames, a heavy gilt framed mirror for a space between the windows and a mirror for a similar purpose with a walnut frame. The firm manufacture their own frames, and hence the work is of a superior character. The frames are finely carved and massive in appearance, and the work is done in the main in plate glass. They are elegant enough in design and finish for a king's palace.

The other special branch of the business of this firm is the manufacture of show cases, and they have a number of styles on exhibition. These samples embrace the oval front, the square case, and the cylindrical. The frame work is all silver-plated. The plating is put on by machinery, pressed into place and polished to the handsomest. This method of putting it on makes it hold better, and gives a more even surface. The firm have invented a process for polishing the silver by steam power, which enables them to use a much harder silver than can be used for polishing by hand, producing a fine and more durable polish, and requiring much less labor to keep it clean than heretofore. The show cases on exhibition attest the success they have achieved. Their display is a very brilliant one, to which we shall refer in detail again.

LAKE GEORGE DIAMONDS.

The assortment of Lake George diamonds exhibited by Mr. E. DeRoy has had many admirers, and these charming pebbles have been thus more largely introduced than could have been done in any other way. The people as they pass by the stand are attracted by the dazzle of the display, and stop to look at the beautiful stones. The more they look the more they admire, for the "Lake George" are really diamonds that make as good a display as any jewelry of that kind. Nobody but a connoisseur can distinguish them from a real diamond, and even some of the best of judges are deceived. For all purposes of ornament they are as good as the genuine article, and there are many people who are able to sport the real diamonds who prefer the Lake George because of their superior brilliancy.

Mr. DeRoy also exhibits a lot of revolvers, watches and jewelry—the whole display being a fine one.

S. HAMILTON & CO.

The magnificent Decker Concert Grand and Decker Upright Pianos, to which we called attention the other day, attract crowds around the stand occupied by the firm of S. Hamilton & Co., on Fifth avenue. It is to the workmanship upon these pianos—although that is superb—which attracts so much attention; it is the music. The Decker and the Brass Band are rivals for popularity. The tone is full, rich, clear and very brilliant, and it can be heard in all parts of the large hall. The people are enthusiastic in their praises when the performer has given a touch of its quality. If this firm had nothing else but these pianos on exhibition, that would have been display sufficient to establish their reputation as first-class dealers.

THE "STAR" TABLE

is that of Messrs. Beppert & Williams. They have a space in the glassware department, and have occupied it with a table made in the shape of a star. Upon it they have arranged with fine taste their display of glassware, China ware, &c., ornamental. Two sets of China dishes of most beautiful designs are displayed on the table. Each set contains almost 200 pieces, each separate article being a perfect gem in its way. Messrs. Beppert & Williams make a specialty of decorated China ware, and the specimens they show of their work in this line attest the perfection which they have achieved. It will be remembered that it was from this house that the beautiful Centennial Cups and Saucers that were sold at our Centennial Tea Parties were made. Their collection for the Exposition, which embraces specimens of their various styles, is a superb one, and do not marvel that it should command such universal praise. This firm has made a display that is a credit to Pittsburgh's artistic skill.

Great Auction Sale

of Sleighs, Robes and Blankets, at McKelvey's Carriage and Harness Bazaar, 4 Diamond street, near Liberty, Pittsburgh, Pa., on Wednesday, October 20, 1875, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

I will sell 50 Swell-side Cutters, all of my own manufacture, the finest ever offered in this market, also, from $5,000 to $7,000 worth of Hudson Bay Wolf, Angora, Fox, Mink, and a fine collection of Lamb Skin, Oxford, Cheviot, English, Scotch and American Robes; Cloth Trimmed Kerseys, White and Dark N. H. Blankets, all full size, 40 inches deep.

The epizootic has broken out here, and the only cure is to keep the horses well blanketed, in order to have them warm.

Don't fail to attend this sale, as you can buy at your own prices, and goods that every horse owner needs.

No postponement on account of weather.

J. A. MCKELVEY, Proprietor.
N. WHITING & CO., Auctioneers.

Overcoats—A Rare Chance.

Mr. E. DeRoy announces the sale of a lot of unredeemed overcoats, which have been left with him in pawn and the time expired. The overcoats embrace all kinds of material and are of a good style of make up. They are generally but little worn, and a fine opportunity is thus given to obtain a nice warm overcoat for the winter at a very small price. The sale goes on every day, and the goods can be examined before being purchased at the store, 153 Smithfield street.

Dancing.

The classes at the Dancing Academy of Prof. James P. Brooks, at the parlors of K. Blair, No. 39 Fifth avenue, have filled up well, and the Professor is now riding upon the high tide of prosperity. He has literally danced into prosperity and waltzed into success. His class for ladies and gentlemen is instructed on Monday and Thursday evenings, while the masters and misses receive due attention on Tuesday and Friday afternoons. Call at the music store for circulars giving full particulars regarding his terms &c.

Mr. H. J. Adams

exhibits the most nobby, varied and attractive line of furnishing goods that we have ever seen at any Exposition, either in Cincinnati, Chicago or elsewhere. In fact, at his store, 98 Fifth avenue, can be found all the variety of first-class goods kept by any of the leading gents' furnishing houses in New York city, and at prices which surprise the most economical. His dress shirts are elegant, durable and very cheap. It will pay to go there.

THE COURT RECORD.

A Complete Report of the Proceedings in the Courts Yesterday.

State Supreme Court.

(Before a Full Bench.)

Henry W. Blakeslee, of Erie, and Wm. F. Stewart, of Brookville, Jefferson county, were admitted to practice in this Court.

The argument of Noble et al. vs. Thompson Oil Company was resumed and concluded by Fallon for plaintiff in error.

Lane et al. vs. Nelson. Error to the Common Pleas of Jefferson. Argued by Gordon for plaintiff in error and Jenks contra.

Brown vs. Reed. Error to the Common Pleas of Erie. Argued by Benson for plaintiff in error and C. C. Marshall contra.

West Hickory Mining Association vs. Reed. Error to the Common Pleas of Venango. Argued by Neill for plaintiff in error and B. J. Reed contra.

United States District Court.

(Before Judge McCandless.)

Wm. F. Logan was appointed foreman of the Grand Jury on the opening of this Court yesterday morning. Judge McCandless' charge to the jury was brief and to the point, and after receiving it they repaired to their room, and shortly returned into Court and presented the following true bills:

United States vs. John Lunger, Sr.; retail liquor dealer without payment of special tax.

United States vs. George Woodcock; retail liquor dealer without payment of special tax.

United States vs. Emmet Swartzwelder; passing counterfeit five cent coins.

United States vs. John Gallagher; robbing a carrier of the United States mail.

United States vs. S. B. Earnest; passing, attempting to pass, and having in his possession a counterfeit note.

The case of Milton H. Fronk was first taken up. He was held on six different indictments of passing and attempting to pass counterfeit money. Owing to the illness of District Attorney Reed, Mr. Wilson, Assistant District Attorney, appeared for the prosecution. The defense was represented by Messrs. Wier and Gibson and O. N. Crawford. The case was opened by Mr. Wilson in a short speech, giving briefly a history of the case. He stated that testimony of outsiders, as well as confessions of the defendant made by the defendant would be adduced, and that the Government would confidently expect a verdict of guilty on each indictment.

Mr. Gibson followed for the defense, and stated that he wished to admit frankly that his client had no defense to make.

After Mr. Wilson had concluded, R. M. Gibson, Esq., arose, and, addressing the court, remarked that Mr. Gibson had stated frankly that his client had no defense to make. The points in the case had been clearly and fairly stated, and he did not think it right to occupy the time of the court in combating the allegations made by the representative of the Government. He did not desire to enter a plea of guilty, but he was fully authorized by his client to state that no defense would be offered in either of the cases pending, and that he was willing that the jury should render a verdict.

The jury, instructed by the Court, found a verdict of guilty on each indictment, and the prisoner was remanded for sentence.

The following cases were continued to the special term in February, to be held in this city:

United States vs. Samuel Thompson, indictment for rectifying without payment of special tax.

Charles W. Robb vs. Joshua Blumer, in bankruptcy.

Butler, McCarthy & Co. vs. Hiram W. Junkin, in bankruptcy.

Dawson & Bailey vs. Collins, Pool & Co., in bankruptcy.

Fred W. Hindekoper vs. A. H. Bronson, in bankruptcy.

O. A. Childs vs. Collins, Pool & Co., in bankruptcy.

E. P. Jones, trustee, vs. A. Inskeep & Co., in bankruptcy.

Burkhalter, Nailer & Co. vs. Joseph M. Kintner, in bankruptcy.

Second National Bank of Titusville vs. Collins Bros., in bankruptcy.

John McDonald vs. John Sweeny, in bankruptcy.

A. W. Kredel, assignee, vs. Joseph Hart and A. G. Neff, in bankruptcy.

The following business in bankruptcy was transacted:

Fred. Fette, of Warren county, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, which was referred to Register Woodruff. A petition for an injunction against Louis Fetger was also presented, and a hearing fixed for the 25th inst.

John Seary, of the same county, filed a similar petition and also a petition for an injunction against John Elliet, treasurer, and a hearing upon the same was fixed for the 27th inst.

Waring Bros., and Waring Bros. & Co. debtors, Pittsburgh. The exceptions to the approval of the composition with the creditors were withdrawn, and the composition approved and made binding on all the creditors.

J. Sharp McDonald, bankrupt, Pittsburgh. The bankrupt presented a petition for discharge, and an order was made for a meeting before Register Shafer on the 2d prox.

Tack Bros., bankrupts, Pittsburgh. An order was made substituting the name of Citizens Oil Refining Company for that of Andrew Lyons, purchaser of certain real estate.

Wm. F. Casey, debtor, Pittsburgh, an order was made for the trial of the issue by a jury at the next term of this court at Pittsburgh.

Charles A. Boucher, bankrupt, Pittsburgh. The exceptions to the composition with creditors having been withdrawn, the compromise was approved and made binding.

Glass, Neely & Co., bankrupts, Pittsburgh. An order was made for a meeting of the creditors before Register Harper on the 1st prox., to consider and pass upon a proposition of the bankrupts for a settlement of all the claims.

C. H. Shelden & Co., bankrupts, Crawford county. An order was made confirming the agreement of compromise on settlement with Hiram Sheldon.

Joseph G. Pollock, bankrupt, Pittsburgh. The petition of assignee, Phillip Reilly, of Pittsburgh, as assignee, the same was approved.

Thomas B. Lashell, bankrupt, Crawford county. The appointment of James L. Morris, of Meadville, as assignee, was approved.

Pool Bros., bankrupts, Venango county. J. D. Chadwick's appointment as assignee was approved.

W. F. Stewart, of Brookville, Pa., was admitted to practice in this Court.

Common Pleas Court No. 1.

Court Brevities.

THE U. S. Grand Jury, now in session in this city, is an exceptionally fine one. The members of it are all men of intelligence, high standing and influence in their respective counties. One colored man, James C. Fairfax, is among the number. He is a man of note among his race. Assistant District Attorney Knox has charge of the jury; he is himself a young man of very great promise and is fully acquainted with his duties.

IN the Court of Common Pleas No. 1 yesterday, George W. Ahl and J. E. McClintock filed a petition in equity against Isaac M. Pennock, to compel him to pay over $2,000 on a mortgage for $7,000. The petition sets forth that a mortgage for $7,000 was executed and delivered to Pennock, who was to negotiate it and hand over the proceeds to Ahl & Co., but that in fact he only paid over $5,000. A rule was granted to show cause.

BREVITIES.

Paragraphic Pencilings of Passing Events.

····The Allegheny Park Commission met last evening but had no business to transact —not even a small bill to approve.

····A general order has been issued from the Pittsburgh & St. Louis Railway Co. that Mr. John W. Renner, heretofore serving in the capacity of Acting Auditor of that company, has been appointed Auditor, to take effect forthwith.

····If there is anything provoking it is to meet, or attempt to pass, two or three ill-mannered boors who are taking all the available space on the sidewalk as if they had exclusive right to it, and consider it the height of absurdity for you to expect one of them to step aside, however much of an apparent hurry you are in and they are not.

····The new fire plugs in the hill wards of the South Side were tested yesterday in the presence of Chief McElroy, a number of members of Council, and others, and found to work admirably. One plug threw water a distance of 180 feet, and over the belfry of the Allentown school house, a height of about 140 feet.

····Miss Walker, who was accidentally shot at Millvale on Saturday afternoon, is still living, but no hopes are entertained of her recovery. The boy Shaffer, who by the careless handling of a gun, was the cause of the accident, is in a crazed condition, and as he has threatened to kill himself his parents are necessitated to keep him in close confinement.

····Messrs. Wm. McKain and J. W. Robinson put in equal bids—$2,025—for the construction of a single span wooden bridge across Chartiers Creek, at Duff's, in Stowe township. The County Commissioners will allow them to arrange the matter between themselves, either by drawing cuts or both working at the contract. The bids were opened yesterday, the highest being for $4,000.

····Thomas Duke and Michael Murray, convicted in Cambria county of burglary, and sentenced to four years imprisonment each in the Western Penitentiary, and Benjamin F. Kelly, sentenced to one year for assault and battery on an aggravated assault and battery upon the gentleman who married the girl he was paying attention to, were incarcerated in that institution by Deputy Sheriff Robb, on Monday evening.

····The exports in full cargoes of petroleum from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore for the week ending October 11, 1875, amounted in crude equivalent to 74,406 barrels. The amount of charters at that date was 255,246 barrels. The total exports in full cargoes from the three ports up to Oct. 11, this year, amounted to 5,184,506 barrels, against 5,584,916 barrels same time last year, a falling off this year of 400,410 barrels.

····Exactly why the late Grand Jury did not make a presentment is not known, but the fact that it didn't excites not a little wonder. Two presentments were drawn up, a majority and a minority one, but neither have seen the light of day. It is hinted that Chief of Police Rose was the bone of contention, a portion of the jurors wanting to make known their opinion of him for casting reflections upon them, and the rest opposing such action. Of course, however, this can be only conjecture.

····The Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel Association of Philadelphia says "a visit to the officers of the Centennial Commission discloses the fact that very few applications for space have been made by iron and steel manufacturers and miners of iron ore. Whole States make no sign that these products will be represented. There is but one application on file for space to exhibit Missouri iron ore, and none to exhibit iron ore of Lake Superior. This will never do! Mr. Goshorn has published a card stating that all applications for space in the building and grounds of the International Exhibition of 1876 must be made prior to October 30th. Whatever the iron industry of the country intends to display to the world next year it should make known to Mr. Goshorn at once.

····Mrs. Catharine Mears, who was committed to the Workhouse some time ago by Acting Mayor Butler for disorderly conduct, was sent back to the Mayor's office yesterday by Superintendent Cordier, with
